ANDREW JACKSON
SIGNED LAND GRANT

* 241

ANDREW JACKSON (1767-1845). Seventh President; General in the War of 1812 and hero of the battle of New Orleans. One of the most noteworthy incidents of the Jackson administration was the battle over rechartering the Second Bank of the United States. Jackson disliked the Bank for many reasons. Among them, he felt it's monetary policy was unsound, that it meddled in politics, and that it was a monopoly whose vast powers threatened the government. He vetoed the Bank's recharter in the summer of 1832, thus causing it to close in 1836 at the expiration of its charter. DS. 1 page. 16" x 9.5". November 2, 1832. Louisiana. Grant of land to Olivia Frazier. On vellum. A clean Jackson document signed as President. Very fine. Condition $750 - up

NEW YORK STATE COMPTROLLER
MILLARD FILLMORE SIGNS A
HUDSON AND BERKSHIRE RAILROAD COMPANY BOND

* 243

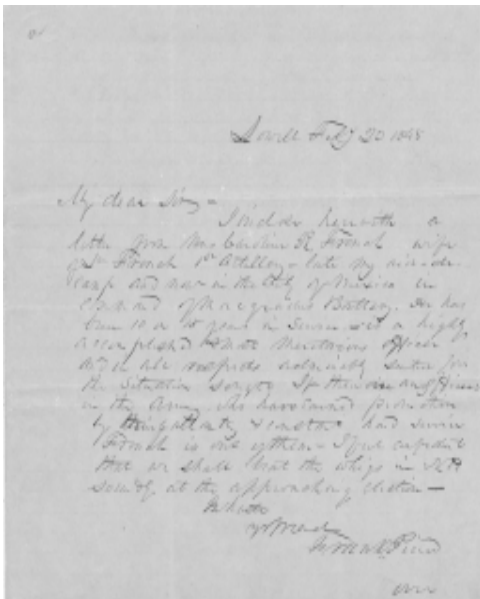

MILLARD FILLMORE. DS. 1pp. 14" x 14". Hudson [New York]. July 1, 1848. A "Hudson & Berkshire Rail-Road Co." bond signed "Millard Fillmore" as the New York State Comptroller. The one thousand dollar bond has thirty-one coupons for thirty-five dollars remaining attached, although four coupons have been removed. The bond states in part: "...the Hudson and Berkshire Rail-Road Company, Acknowledges themselves indebted to the Comptroller of the State of New York, for the use of the holder of this Bond, in the sum of One Thousand Dollars...they promise to pay at the Mechanics' Bank, in the City of New York...with interest at the rate of seven percent per annum...". The bond, printed on paper with elaborate border engravings, is in fine condition. There are four punch holes through Fillmore's dark signature. $600 - up

MILITARY APPOINTMENT
SIGNED BY CLEVELAND

* 244

GROVER CLEVELAND. DS. 1p. Washington, D.C. 3/4" x 19 3/4". January 12, 1895. Partly-printed ornate military commission accomplished in a secretarial hand and signed by Cleveland as President. Cleveland appoints Joshua W. Jacobs "Quartermaster with the rank of Major in the service of the United States . . . from the 31st day of December eighteen hundred and ninety four . . ." "Docketed in red ink at upper left." Traces of glue residue at the embossed seal at bottom left. Cleveland's signature is bold and clear. Extremely Fine. Condition $400 - up

A FINE FRANKLIN PIERCE ALS IN WHICH HE MENTIONS THE UPCOMING ELECTIONS "I FEEL CONFIDENT THAT WE SHALL BEAT THE WHIGS IN N.H. SOUNDLY IN THE APPROACHING ELECTIONS"

* 242

FRANKLIN PIERCE (1804-1869). Fourteenth President of the United States. ALS. 1 page. Lowell, (Mass), Feby. 23, 1848. A fine letter in which the future president seeks an appointment of a former aid-de-camp and mentions his optimism for defeating the Whigs in the fall elections. Pierce was very active in local Democratic politics and his sympathy for the Southern cause would make him the compromise candidate and finally President. "I inclose herewith a letter from Mrs. Caroline R. French, wife of Lt. French, 1st Artillery - late my aid-de-camp and now in the City of Mexico in Command of Macgruders Battery. He has been 10 or 15 years in Service - is a highly accomplished () meritorious officer and in all respects admirably suited for the situation sought. If there are any officers in the Army, who have earned promotion by their gallantry & constant hard service, French is one of them. I fell confident that we shall beat the whigs in N.H. soundly at the approaching election- In haste, Yr. Friend, Frank. Pierce."

"P.S. I expect to be in Washington next week but you will perceive that if anything is to be done for Lieut. French there is no time to be lost. I feel a deep interest in this matter and beg you to call on the Secy. Of War immediately on the receipt of this." A Fine Pierce letter.

TR LETTER ON OUTLOOK
STATIONARY CONCERNING A POLITICAL RACE

* 245

THEODORE ROOSEVELT (1858-1919) Twenty-sixth President of the United States who started the Panama Canal, settled the Russo-Japanese War, broke up Standard Oil and encouraged conservation. T.L.S. as Editor of the Outlook on his printed letterhead, 1p. 7" x 8", New York, Jan. 29, 1913, to Henry Waldo Coe, an Oregon Senator and friend of Roosevelt's, reading in part: "...I will do my best to try to defeat McCusker, but do not know whether it will be possible or not. I will write at once to Senator Bourne...". It is unknown to us what position the aforementioned McClusker was attempting to win, or whether Roosevelt's efforts to thwart him were successful. AN EXTRAORDINARY BUCHANAN POLITICAL LETTER IN WHICH HE DISCUSSES THE UPCOMING PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION AND ITS CANDIDATES

"Mr. Van Buren never was, neither my first or second choice for the Presidency..."

"God knows what may be the result of the next Presidential election. Should the Whigs prevail & Clay be elected, it may be long very long before Democratic principles shall regain the ascendancy."

* 246

JAMES BUCHANAN (1791-1868). Fifteenth President. Buchanan was from Pennsylvania and he served in a variety of posts before the Presidency, including service in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives and the United States House of Representatives, Minister to Russia and Great Britain, United States Senator and Polk's Secretary of State. He defeated Fremont for the Presidency in 1856; during his term he dealt with the Panic of 1857, Bleeding Kansas and the secession of the Southern states, which he left to Lincoln.

ALS. 2 pages with attached integral Free Frank address leaf. Washington, 18, January 1844.

To the Hon. F. W. Pickens:

"I have received your kind letter & most cordially reciprocate the friendly feelings which it manifests for myself. I am glad that you approve of my withdrawal. Mr. Van Buren never was, neither my first or second choice for the Presidency as you well know; and I have never concealed this opinion. When, however, it became clear as the light that he would be nominated - nay that he had already been nominated in fact, if not in form; I felt it to be a duty which I owed to my country & my party to withdraw from the hopeless contest. My continuance in the field could have produced not effect but injury to my party, my friends & myself.

God knows what may be the result of the next Presidential election. Should the Whigs prevail & Clay be elected, it may be long very long before Democratic principles shall regain the ascendancy. From his very nature, however, might carry Whig principles to such an excess in practice as to destroy his party.

I can scarcely venture an opinion as to the vote of Pennsylvania. I think, however, that when the war begins to be fairly waged, & the forces are marshalled, the old Democratic spirit will rise & conquer. In his principles, I trust, they will forget these objections to the man.

I confess I am alarmed by your suggestions. I presume that the developments to which you refer relate to Mr. Calhoun's forthcoming letter. I have only heard vague reports as to what it contains.

The present three days wonder is the letter of Mr. Reves. He can carry little or no strength with him; but still it is a symptom that he believes Mr. Clay to be in the ascendant. Those who know him best say that he has an unerring instinct for discovering the strong side. How a man who has all his life been opposed to a Bank, distribution and all the other federal heresies proceeding from a latitudinarian construction of the Constitution can now turn round & support the great apostle of all these doctrines, I am utterly at a loss to comprehend."

Prior to the election of 1844, Buchanan's Pennsylvania supporters had mentioned him as a "favorite son" candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination. However, as indicated in this letter and a historical fact, Buchanan withdrew prior to the convention in deference to the party. Upon the election of Polk, Buchanan was appointed Secretary of State. This letter offers a fine glimpse into Buchanan's mindset concerning the political forces arrayed against both himself and his party at the time. A truly fine political letter of the period written during a particularly tumultuous period in political history. $2,000 - up

NEW YORK GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT WRITES TO THE MAINE GOVERNOR ABOUT THE ECONOMY JUST MONTHS BEFORE THE 1929 STOCK MARKET CRASH

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT (1861 - 1948). 32nd President of the United States; Governor of New York; Led the U.S. out of the Great Depression, and to victory in World War II. TLS. 3pp. 8" x 10 1/2". Albany, March 20, 1929. A typed letter signed "Franklin D Roosevelt" on his "State of New York Executive Chamber" letterhead. Governor Roosevelt wrote a lengthy letter to the Maine Governor, the "Hon. Ralph O. Brewster" regarding economic statistics: "...In New York State the Labor Department, acting without any specific direction to that effect, does compile and publish monthly information as to the employment and pay-rolls, from which is computed a series of monthly index numbers showing the trend of employment and wages in New York State...Dating back to June 1914, The Bureau of Statistics and Information of this Department has secured from the management of 1648 manufacturers in New York State a written statement as to the number of employees and amount of wages paid for one week, usually the one including the 15th of the month...This information is printed currently in the Industrial Bulletin, the monthly publication of this Department showing figures for the current month, the two preceding months, and the corresponding month of the year previous...In addition there are collected each month from 23 cities of New York State information as to the number and estimated value of the building permits issued...The only State in which any extensive returns are secured from building employers in Ohio...The U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics has not yet entered the construction field...New York State was the pioneer in collecting information from manufacturers...". This letter is an eerie foreshadowing of the Great Crash seven months later. The letter is in very fine condition with a gold embossed seal on the first page. A fine association between governors. $900 - up

A RARE REPORT PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE ANNOUNCING THE RESULTS OF THE ELECTORAL VOTE TO THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES CONFIRMING FDR'S ELECTION TO HIS FIRST TERM OF OFFICE AS PRESIDENT

"The undersigned, Otis F. Glenn and William H. King, tellers on the part of the Senate, Lamar Jeffers and Charles L. Gifford, tellers on the part of the House of Representatives, report the following as the result of the ascertainment and counting of the electoral vote for President and Vice President of the United States for the term beginning on the fourth day of March, nineteen hundred and thirty-three."

A printed large document printed and signed by the tellers of the House and Senate officially announcing FDR's landslide victory over Herbert Hoover. This document was printed by the Government Printing Office just after the election in 1932 and apparently distributed internally to members of the House and Senate to officially notify them of the results. The results of each state details votes cast for both Presidents and Vice-Presidents and detail one of the largest defeats in Presidential election history.

"The state of the vote for President of the United States, as delivered to the President of the Senate is as follows:

The whole number of the electors appointed to vote for President of the United States is 531, of which a majority is 266.

Franklin D. Roosevelt of the State of New York, has received for President of the United States 472 votes; Herbert Hoover, of the State of California, has received 59 votes.

The state of the vote for Vice President of the United States, as delivered to the President of the Senate, is as follows:

The whole number of the electors appointed to vote for Vice President of the United States is 531, of which a majority is 266.

John N. Garner, of the State of Texas, has received for Vice President of the United States 472 votes; Charles Curtis of the the State of Kansas, has received 59 votes.

This announcement of the state of the vote by the President of the Senate shall be deemed a sufficient declaration of the persons elected President and Vice President of the United States, each for the term beginning on the fourth day of March, nineteen hundred and thirty-three, and shall be entered, together with a list of the votes, on the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives."

The item remains in its original frame from the 1930's and measures 13" x 29" overall. This is an extraordinarily historically interesting piece of political history from the election which would lead to FDR becoming the only four term President in U.S. history. Overall Fine. $2,500 - up

FDR SIGNED ANCIENT ORDER OF THE DEEP FOR A SAILOR WHO SERVED ON THE U.S.S. INDIANAPOLIS, THE SHIP WHICH WOULD LATER BE TORPEDOED AND SUNK RESULTING IN ONE OF THE NAVY'S MOST TRAGIC HUMAN LOSSES

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT (1882-1945). Thirty-second President. Large colorful document measuring 21" x 15" signed at the lower left by Roosevelt. Issued to Stanley T. Irvine for crossing the equator on November 24, 1936 aboard the U. S. S. Indianapolis. The story of the ship's ill-fated last voyage remains one of the United States Navy's most sordid tales. "At 12:14 a.m. on July 30, 1945, the USS Indianapolis was torpedoed by a Japanese submarine in the Philippine Sea and sank in 12 minutes. Of 1,196 men on board, approximately 300 went down with the ship. The remainder, about 900 men, were left floating in shark-infested waters with no lifeboats and most with no food or water. The ship was never missed, and by the time the survivors were spotted by accident four days later only 316 men were still alive." An exciting piece of naval history. In excellent condition. $2,000 - up

ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL (1847-1922). Scientist; Inventor of the telephone; Educator of the deaf. A superb content TLS. Washington, D.C. December 30, 1901. To Annie Sullivan, in full. "I am glad to hear from Miss Villa J. Curren that you propose to demonstrate to the world that my innocent little statement in Baddeck that the methods pursued by Miss Sullivan in the education of Helen Keller would revolutionize the teaching of the deaf, was NOT 'incorrect, misleading, and mischievous', as stated by our good friend Mr. Wade!" "Seriously, it delights me to know that you propose to direct the education of a young deaf child through Miss Curren, if you can get the proper child. I need hardly tell you that I shall be very glad to be of assistance in this matter. The only question is how to get the proper child. I have a plan that will surely produce the child if you don't object to it, and that is to PUBLISH THE FACT that you and Miss Curren desire a little child. The mere publication of the fact in the columns of the Review will at once lead to the desired result. May the Review allude to the matter?" "I have recently been in communication with a lady in Texas about the education of her little girl under seven years of age. This child's education has been begun by an oral teacher at home, but the mother was anxious to get another teacher. The mother has become exceedingly anxious upon the subject of the education of the deaf. I should imagine that this little boy might - if you could get him - prove to be the pupil you, I presume would want - an extremely young deaf child, who has nothing to unlearn." "I hesitate to give you the name and address until I know more of your plans, and until I have communicated with the mother, but I write by this mail to the mother in Texas, giving her your address so she can communicate with you if she desires." "I am very much pleased with the appearance of Miss Curren. What are her capabilities? Do you consider that she has in her the makings of a good teacher of deaf children?" "Please give my best love to Helen, and I wish you both a Very Happy New Year, and many of them. Yours sincerely," Boldly signed at the conclusion by Bell. This is truly an extraordinary Bell letter. Helen Keller had left for college and apparently, Sullivan's love for teaching caused this search to replace her longtime famous student. There is some waterstaining at the lower right, readily apparent in the photo. A superb association and wonderful content seldom seen in Bell's letters.

A GREAT LETTER DISCUSSING HENRY CLAY AS THE WHIG CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY

 [HENRY CLAY] "Gentlemen, I have received your letter of invitation to attend a public meeting in the city of New York, "for the purpose of (-) the name of the Hon. Henry Clay of Kentucky, as the Whig candidate for the Presidency at the next election". It would give me very great pleasure, I assure you, to be present with you on that occasion, & participate with you in a measure of so much interest to the great Whig party, & to our common country, if my public duties would permit. But, I could not (- - -) my sense of duty, to be absent from my seat for a single day, as the period has arrived, when the country has a right to expect, that my man here, will discharge his whole duty, faithfully & fearlessly.

The signs of the times indicate, that we are approaching a crisis in our public affairs, of a more extraordinary character, than has ever been (-), since the adoption of the federal constitution. The exercise of the veto power by the present Executive, has already excited the fears of many of the best men of our country, & the recent attempts to (-) the action of (-), in the discharge of its legitimate duties, by threats from the government (-), (-) to (-) "by authority," of a still further & more extraordinary exercise of that power, is calculated to excite the most peaceful (-), of every (-) of his country. But if the time shall arrive, when the wheels of the government shall be stopped, & the resources for its support be taken away, by the (-) & arbitrary act of a single individual, although the fearful responsibility will rest where it should, no one can contemplate such a state of things, without the most fearful anxiety & alarm for the stability & perpetuity of our civil institutions. I cannot but hope however, that calm & deliberate reason & reflection will triumph over (- & -), that Congress will continue to be regarded as the legislative branch of the government, & that the calamity with which we are threatened, will be averted.

To the present Congress, is the country now looking with the most (-) anxiety, for a tariff of duties, which shall meet the wants of the government, & afford reasonable protection & encouragement to domestic industry. And if the just hopes of the country are again to be disappointed - if we are to be deprived of the incalculable (-) which would flow, in such rich protection, from such a measure, that we have been deprived of a national & uniform currency - who can calculate the sufferings & wide spread (-----) & a more happy & prosperous people? Then (-) should we (-), that the anticipated (-) of our glorious triumph in 1840, have been buried in the same grave, with our (-) Harrison.

I cannot however, see the necessity at this time, of holding conversations for the purpose of (-) the name of the distinguished statesman you have mentioned, to the American people. Henry Clay is deservedly the pride & hope of his country, which she will delight to honor. To him the eyes of the Nation are already directed, as the man of all others, to restore confidence & credit to the government, & prosperity & hope (-), to our (- & -) country. His name is interwoven with a long (-) of the history of his country, & his great & valuable services have not only endeared him to his countrymen, but have given him claims upon this gratitude which cannot fail to be remembered. His name will be a tower of strength around which the Whigs of the union can rally in support of their (-), with the same hopes of success which in 1840, secured the election of that great & good man, whose untimely death, the nation now, so deeply mourns.

In the hope & belief, that your (-) will be (-) by calm & deliberate action, & patriotic devotion to our suffering & (-) country,

BUFFALO BILL AND PAWNEE BILL SIGNED PROMISSORY NOTE FOR WILD WEST SHOW POSTERS
* 287

WILLIAM F. CODY AND G. W. LILLIE The two legendary showmen jointly signed a seven month promissory note on December 15, 1911. They agreed to "pay to THE UNITED STATES LITHOGRAPH COMPANY or order, Five thousand three hundred and seventy two 41/100 Dollars with interest from date until paid, at six percent per annum". Cody's Last Ride Into The Sunset By 1910, William "Buffalo Bill" Cody was a worn, sixty four year old man. For the previous forty years, he had lived on the road, performing with the Wild West Show. He had given the show wonderful thousands of times, pleasing hundreds of thousands of people of all ages. Yet for all the thousands of paying customers, Cody did not grow wealthy. The constant expense of moving animals and show props gnawed at his profits. For years, his investments in ranches, stocks and real estate, failed to grow. His financial manager, Nate Salsbury, kept the show viable, but when Salsbury died in 1902, Cody knew there might be trouble. He turned to James A. Bailey of circus fame to manage the legendary Wild West show. When Bailey died in 1907, the show was slightly in debt, and Cody knew he needed financial help quickly. In addition to debt, Cody saw the new threat that loomed, motion pictures. No longer did people have to pay Cody to see the relics of the Wild West; for just a few cents, they could enjoy a moving picture of horses, Cowboys and Indians. In addition, movies could show the spectacular Western panoramas that Cody could not. Fortunately for Cody, an old friend was willing to make a deal to help both of them. Gordon "Pawnee Bill" Lillie was another Western showman. He managed the Pawnee Indians for the Wild West Show in the early 1880s before he left to run his own Pawnee Bill's Far East Show. Like the more famous Cody, Pawnee Bill also faced the threat from movies. The two old friends struck a simple deal in 1910 that was mutually beneficial. Cody was the better known performer, so the two men would capitalize on Cody's name. Pawnee Bill was the better businessman who had some financial resources, so the two would use Pawnee Bill's money to fund the show. The men were going to have a "farewell tour" intended to visit every town in the United States and Canada, and they hoped it would last three years.

A FABULOUS ARCHIVE OF PERSONAL CORRESPONDENCE
WRITTEN BY SUPREME COURT JUSTICE BENJAMIN R. CURTIS
TO A LONGTIME FRIEND, E.M. STOUGHTON

"...this case had not fair treatment. It received no proper consideration from some members of the court. I shall never cease to feel that injustice was done from a want of fidelity to duty of members of the court..."

* 292

BENJAMIN CURTIS (1809 - 1874) Nominated to the Supreme Court by President Millard Fillmore in 1851, and he remained on the Court for six years. Curtis is known for his opinions in two cases: Cooley v. Bd. of Wardens (1852), and Dred Scott v. Sandford (1857). In Dred Scott, Curtis dissented from the Supreme Court's holding that the Court lacked subject matter jurisdiction because Dred Scott was not a citizen of the United States, and from the Court's dictum that the Missouri Compromise of 1820 was unconstitutional. Curtis resigned in dismay and disgust from the Court after Dred Scott was decided. Curtis was only 47 when he resigned from the Court. He returned to the practice of law in Boston after resigning, and acted as defense counsel to Andrew Johnson during Johnson's impeachment trial in 1868. Curtis was thrice married, and was the father of 12 children.

A superb archive of 37 mostly multiple page letters entirely written by Supreme Court Justice Benjamin Curtis to his longtime friend E. M. Stoughton. The letters span a period of 1858 - 1873 and a number of them were written during the Civil War. A great deal of personal content as well as legal business matters are discussed

Curtis mentions the death of two of his children from scarlet fever "which has killed two of my children". He writes of the death of his second wife in 1860 on mourning stationary; "I am truly grateful to you for your sympathy...no one can know as I do who have () fourteen years of love, honor and harmony with her, without a moment's interruption, even by a hasty word, & have seen her go away with the sweet composure on her feel, which was in her heart...Curtis continues on with the details of her illness. Letters discussing "The Corliss case" which was a patent dispute provides some considerable detail on legal work that he may have been involved in with Stoughton.

A letter in which he indicates desire to do his duty as a voter in the upcoming election "I can not leave here so as to be in New York...to have a conversation with you, without neglecting what I feel to be a duty - but to vote here. Will you please say to Judge Nelson that Mr. Wm. Appleton is a candidate for Congress in the District where I am a voter...& every ballot is important..."

A reference to his legal work during the war mentions enemy prisoners. "I am going to Maine to argue the first of the insurance cases arising out of the Confederate Captives."

Concerning the loss of a case he felt storngly about Curtis scathes the court.

These letters bear out the loss of three children and his second wife thus offering a personalized view of the great sadness surrounding Curtis' career and the emotional drain he must have been suffering while being looked to for legal leadership. An exceptionally fine opportunity to acquire such a correspondence from one of America's leading legal figures of the period during a time in which he was the recognized leader of the American Bar.

A GREAT DALLAS ALS WRITTEN DURING THE WHISKY REBELLION

ALEXANDER J. DALLAS. ALS. 2pp. 9 1/2" x 15 1/2". Secretary's Office. 4 April 1794. An outstanding autograph letter signed "A. J. Dallas" concerning the Whiskey Rebellion. Dallas, who was originally from Pennsylvania, the same state as the Whiskey Rebellion, was appointed pay-master general and aide-de-camp to the governor during that crisis. Dallas wrote to "Captain Ebenezer Denny" of Pittsburgh: "Lest any misunderstanding should arise, in protecting the business of your Detachment, on account of the absence of the Brigade Inspector, the Governor directs me to transmit to you an Extract from the letter, which he wrote to that office on the 1 Ult., relatively to the arrangements for expediting your march, and supporting you, if necessary, with a competent draft from the militia. I have also, inclosed [sic] a copy of the additional instructions, which the Governor has issued on that subject, in consequence of the present situation of the public affairs. If, at any time, you should judge the augmentation of your force necessary, to repel any actual...hostilities, from any quarter, you will, with all possible dispatch, communicate your situation to Govr. Wilkins junr. or to the Brigade Inspector of Allegheny County, who have direction to exert themselves for your relief. Still, however, you are to consider yourself as bound to act merely on the defensive, agreeable [sic] to the Governor's orders of the 1 Ult.; to avoid every appearance of aggression, consistently with the execution of you trust; and to conciliate the good will of the Indian, or British, settlers, in the neighborhood of the County, through which you march. As the season for commencing your march approaches, you will...Genl. Wilkins, from a consideration of the actual...of the country, and of your indulgence respecting any mediated opposition, how far you ought to advance, in order to fix a place of rendezvous for the different parts of your detachment, and the Commissioners. It is presumed that you maintain a regular correspondence with those Gentlemen; whose security is the object of the Detachment under your command, and whose instructions ought, therefore, to be punctually regarded. In addition to these intimations, the Governor directs me to repeat his desire of hearing from you on every interesting occasion." The Whiskey Rebellion, which took place in western Pennsylvania near Pittsburgh, was the first direct challenge to the new authority of the Federal Government. In 1791, Treasury Secretary Alexander Hamilton needed to raise revenue to pay for the Federal Government's assumption of the state debts from the American Revolution. He raised the excise taxes on spirits, which affected Pennsylvania farmers, who thought they were paying an unfairly large share of the tax. Some distillers refused to pay the tax, so the Federal Court in Philadelphia ordered their arrest. When served with the papers, the distillers attacked the Federal officers. President Washington, determined to show the new government's supreme authority, asked the insurgents to stop and requested that the governors of New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania raise 13,000 troops, which Washington personally inspected. The troops were gathered at Carlisle, Pennsylvania and when the fighting did not stop, they marched west. The rebels quickly scattered when the troops approached. A few leaders were arrested and convicted, though the merciful Washington later pardoned them. The letter is in dark ink. The paper has numerous fold separations, making the piece delicate, though the content is still fully readable. A fine piece showing a state official trying to stop the uprising. $1,200 - up

ORSON S. FOWLER (1809 - 1887). One of the foremost phrenologists of his day, a man of immense reputation, Fowler was author of numerous books and articles, publisher of several phrenological journals, and a very popular on the "lecture circuit." It has been said about Fowler, ". . . his interests were universal and he supposed himself able to solve the problems of every department of knowledge by means of "phrenology and physiology" alone. Without special training in philosophy, science or medicine, he undertook to answer the most difficult questions in those fields." ADS. 11pp. 131 Nassau St., N.Y. 8" x 9"

March 29, 1845." Autograph document titled, "The Phrenological Character of — by O.S. Fowler" accomplished entirely in Fowler's hand and signed by him at the beginning and the conclusion of the document. Document describes the character of some unnamed gentleman. Description of the character strengths comprises the vast majority of the document, the character flaws being noted in a mere paragraph at the document's end. Among the strength's noted are: ". . . You are also aspiring, lofty in purpose, . . . often called upon to give advice, because of the confidence people repose in you . . . kind hearted, but will not impoverish yourself by giving. . . You generalize exceedingly . . . and in the conclusions to which you come you always hit the mark. . . You are remarkably methodical. . ." And among the weaknesses: "Your greatest defeat is that you take no pains to put on the agreeable. What you like you show . . . but when you . . . dislike, you do not smooth off the corners. . ." A superb phrenological item in which Fowler has taken great pains to provide in-depth detail of the character in question. All leaves are fresh and clean. Folds and several minor ink smudges in the text. Otherwise excellent. Fowler's signatures are bold and clear. $500 - up

ROBERT TODD LINCOLN (1843-1926). Business executive. TLS. 2 pages. On imprinted stationery of the The Pullman Company at which he served as president following George Pullman's death. November 13th, 1908. A lengthy letter detailing the installation of boilers for a plant.

My dear Mr. Thatcher:
 I brought with me here the blueprints and papers which you gave me in relation to the Shaking and Dumping Grate, and gave them to our General Manager, Mr. Dean, with the request that the matter should be thoroughly looked into, as a possible benefit in our own service. I explained to Mr. Dean my personal relations to you, and that I desired very much that this matter should not be passed by in a perfunctory manner.

I have been advised that there has been a very thorough inspection of the matter by our people at Pullman, and the result is shown in a quotation from a letter by Mr. Hoffman, our Chief Engineer at Pullman, to Mr. Dunbar, the Manager of our works there:

"Referring to the attached letter from Mr. Dean, General Manager, relative to "Coe's Improved Sectional Shaking Grate", would say this grate is for hand fired boilers and we have no boilers in the plant where we could install one.

In my opinion this is a very good grate, in fact one of the best that has been brought to my notice.

The comparison made between this grate and the Greene grate which we are using is wrong, as our grates are what is known as mechanical stokers, while this grate is not, it being for use on hand fired only."

"It sll be noted that they would prove exceptionally good grates for hand fired boilers."

The last sentence in the quotation is from Mr. Dunbar's report to our General Manager.

I am advised that all our fur naces at Pullman, Buffalo, and all of our repair shops, are mechanical stoking apparatus, so that the remarks above quoted apply to our entire service.

I am returning the blueprints and enclosures with the to you by express. Fine but for a bit of browning. $200 - up

GORDON "PAWNEE BILL" LILLIE. ALS. 2pp. 6 3/4" x 10 1/4". n.d. [circa 1910-1912]. n.p. A lengthy autograph letter signed "G.W. Lillie" to Buffalo Bill Cody in pencil. Lillie wrote to "Bill" about some financial matters when they were business partners from about 1910 to 1913: "I have over $23,000 in cash in my personal money held in Denver my half of the plant which did not belong to the M C Company. I have made an effort through my attorney in Denver to turn over to the U S Litho Co and Tammen installments of the claims they hold against me. My Atty writes us that Mr. Tammen said he considered it a fair offer and that he was willing to take it. But Marks for the printing Co refused - Now I have waited two years trying to bring a settlement all the time but am unsuccessful as Marks puts it off each time. It prevents me from going into any business ventures. And I have had several good offers - but had to turn them down. Mr. Tammen is the only man who can come pull a settlement. And I believe from what you have said to me that you could get him to bring it about. And so long as Tammen has said my offer was fair - I can not see any favor in my asking you to use your influence to bring about this settlement which I am sure you can do - If you will undertake it I will have to meet you and would like you to come to my ranch. If you can do so I will pay all expenses of the trip if not you can come to Cin[cinnati] But would much rather you would come here as I want to show you the greatest ranch you ever saw. With best wishes your friend G.W. Lillie". About 1910, Cody realized his Wild West Show was losing money at an alarming rate, due in part to motion pictures. Lillie and Cody decided to join forces for a three year Farewell Tour that did well the first year, but flopped in the second. Soon, creditors, such as the United States Lithograph Company that produced all the show's posters, encircled Cody, looking for their money. Cody was unable to pay, so he agreed to Harry Tammen's ludicrous offer of a six month note of $20,000, using the Show's property as collateral. When Cody could not pay, Tammen had marshals seize the Show's property, leaving Lillie's legal recourses futile. Lillie's letter discusses these financial matters with his show and business partners. The piece has some light toning and very slight chipping to the edges, but is in very fine condition. An outstanding associative letter between the two great Western showmen. $750 - up

GEORGE PATTON WRITES TO HIS MOTHER FROM WEST POINT

GEORGE PATTON (1885-1945) "Old Blood and Guts" was one of the finest tank commanders in history, rolling his forces through Tunisia, Sicily, France and Germany until halted at the Rhine. Good content (with a distinct lack of punctuation) A.L.S. "George Patton Jr." 8 pp. 8vo. [West Point], Dec 30, 1906, an excited and rambling letter to his mother about his Christmas with future wife, Bee Ayer in Boston and reads in part: "Dear Mama; do not read this aloud. Here I am back from Boston and one of the finest times I ever had people could not have been nicer to me than they were in fact they were too nice and of course I did my damndest to keep up my end and seemed to make a fair hit for a bout half a dozen people asked me to visit them next year and the Ayers wanted me to stay a month next summer, which of course I cant do...next day was Christmas and Freddie and I hung up stockings for ever body which was lots of fun I got quite childish but did not get to bed until 2: am next morning we got up and sang carols (I did not sing) I got a lot of thins in my stocking the most important of which was bottle of hair tonic which I have used regularly since...We played around until three o'clock when dinner was served for 25 it was great. but I forget I helped Mrs. Ayer fix the table and made a lot of wreaths for her and actually had some very artistic ideas some of which she adopted. Well we ate all sorts of things among which were fish turkey venison mince [p]ie apple plum pudding...just before the cream cam K and I got up & passed around a basket of wreaths I had made and to each man which he decorated the lady next him while K. gave each lady a sprig of holly with which they decorated the men. They then began to toast and finally James Ayer toasted the army well I saw it was up to me and I felt pretty badly but soon as I got up and held up the glass the blood of cavaliers came to my help and I replied with a toast to those the defense of whom made the army worth belonging to and ended with a particular reference to those present. I don't remember just what I said but the clapped more than for any one else... The Ayers gave me six big gold buttons for white vest a gold knife a case of six beautiful silver knives and B gave me a silver picture frame to carry in my pocket with two places for pictures one for you and one for Pa. She said that you and Pa will have to Have a picture taken together for reasons which you can probably understand...Gosh but B is a peach I sear she is a lot better than perfect. Now this letter is strictly private I don't want any Bannings Browns or any one else to hear it do you understand for I happen to know that the news of what I or any body else says gets to Boston on the next mail. Mrs. Ayer was sick the day after Christmas you had best mention this when you write to show that I am sufficiently interested in her to mention it..." George and Bee fist met on Catalina Island when they were both young. Within a few years they had resolved to eventually marry. The Ayer Family owners of American Woolen Company, were of a much higher social standing than the Pattons, and many of the Ayer family friends concluded that Bee could have married far better than a young officer just out of West Point. It appears here that George was determined to make a good impression on the family to assuage their fears. Some contemporary smudging, usual folds, otherwise fine condition. $2,000 - up

PATTON WRITES SHORTLY AFTER STARTING WEST POINT DESCRIBING HIS MEETING YOUNG WOMEN AND THE START OF CLASSES

* 360

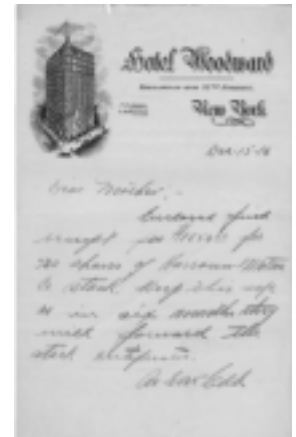

GEORGE S. PATTON ALS. 6pp. 5" x 6 1/2". Aug. 18, '04. West Point New York. An autograph letter signed "Georgie" to "Anne" shortly after his first arrival at West Point. Using blue "United States Military Academy" letterhead, he penned: "Your letter was very interesting and I am really [sic] quite anxious [sic] to see Siberia. I would like to be an actor in such a play. Yesterday we had a great time a Mrs. Watson asked ten plebes to a picnic and I was one of them we all went out at camp seperately [sic] and met at a little lake in the hills below Fort Putnam there we waited for a long time and had just determined to drown the fellow who had told us we were invited when Mrs. Watson came in a carriage. She brought lots of things to eat and five young ladies, each girl had a piece of paper pinned on her with her name and as soon as we come up we were similarly fixed so that there was no trouble about knowing who to speak to. The carriage came back with six more girls..." A choice, early Patton letter. $2,000 - up boxer, whose nickname, the Manassa Mauler, is derived from his birthplace and his aggressive style as a fighter. Dempsey became world heavyweight champion in 1919, when he defeated the American boxer Jess Willard. In 1926 Dempsey lost the title to the American boxer Gene Tunney. In a rematch with Tunney in 1927, Dempsey again lost by a decision; in this famous fight, known as the Battle of the Long Count, Dempsey ignored the rule requiring a fighter to return to a neutral corner during the count after a knockdown. After this loss Dempsey retired. An enormously popular figure, Dempsey did much to make professional boxing a profitable and popular enterprise.

OSCAR BERGER SIGNED AND UNSIGNED SKETCHES

A SUPERB BERGER SKETCH SIGNED BY THE LEGENDARY W. C. FIELDS

Particularly hard to come by signed caricature of W. C. Fields drawn by world famous Czechoslovakian caricaturist Oscar Berger. DS. 1pp. n.p. n.d. 9 1/2" x 15". Fields, W. C. (William Claude Fields) (1880-1946). American comic actor, b. Philadelphia as Claude William Dukenfield. He began his career as a juggler, and much later appeared in the Ziegfeld Follies and in Earl Carroll's Vanities. In 1925, he first worked with D. W. Griffith. With his rasping voice and bulbous nose, Fields was an able satiric comedian. At his best in portrayals of drunken, swaggering, and down-at-the-heels rascals, Fields could be pointedly vitriolic and uproariously funny. Among his best films are It's a Gift (1934) and The Man on the Flying Trapeze (1935). He scored a personal triumph in his sole dramatic role, as Micawber in David Copperfield (1935). He wrote the stories or screenplays for many of his films. One of his last works, My Little Chickadee (1940), co-starred and was co-written by Mae West. A true classic. Wonderful for display.

Robinson, Edward G., 1893-1973, American movie actor, b. Bucharest, Romania, as Emmanuel Goldberg. He made his stage debut in New York City in 1915. A short, tough-looking man, Robinson played both vicious gangsters and amiable men, the latter frequently led astray by unfaithful women. His most famous role was as the snarling mobster in Little Caesar (1931). He played criminals in such movies as Five Star Final (1931), Kid Galahad (1937), and Key Largo (1948), and more sympathetic parts in Double Indemnity (1944), The Stranger (1946), Tight Spot (1955), and Soylent Green (1973). AN INTERESTING BROADSHEET FROM THE SECOND LINCOLN ELECTION PRESENTING "THE PLATFORMS" AS PRESENTED BY THE REPUBLICAN AND DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATES

* 494 (ABRAHAM LINCOLN AND GEORGE McCLELLAN). Broadsheet. 1 page. 8 3/4" x 11 1/4". A finely detailed representation of each candidate's position at their respective National Conventions held when each was nominated for their party's candidacy for the presidency.

A contentious election in which Lincoln's ability to win was gravely in doubt in its early stages as the war lingered on Sherman's capture of Atlanta.

An interesting read to quickly understand the major differences between the two sharply divided rivals. While old scotch tape was removed long ago there remain significant tape stains at the folds. All paper remains. A nice campaign item.

LARGE BALLOT FROM THE 1896 ELECTION WHICH BROUGHT MCKINLEY HIS FIRST TERM IN OFFICE

* 529
A large poster sized ballot measuring 21 1/2" x 23 3/4" from the hotly contested "Free Silver" election. The election of 1896 remains "critical" because of its lasting import as a milestone in the conflict between agrarian and industrial America. Conservative Northeastern creditor interests viewed Bryan's advocacy of free silver as a sectional and agrarian demand for dishonorable repudiation of debt. To Western and Southern debtors, however, the free-silver issue represented the determination of "productive workers" to use the ballot to seek economic justice in a government-directed redistribution of the national wealth. Bryan also called for tariff reform, control of the trusts, an income tax, direct elections, government rather than private issuance of money, an end to "federal interference" and "government by injunction," and liberalization of the Supreme Court. The Progressive movement endorsed all these points in the early 1900's. Some margin tears and some very minor paper loss in a couple of areas at extreme margin. $200 – up

AN EARLY ST. LOUIS BROWNS STOCK ISSUED TO AND SIGNED BY PART OWNER AND PRESIDENT PHILIP BALL

1922, St. Louis, Missouri. Stock certificate for 113 shares of the St. Louis American League Base Ball Company. Vignette of the team logo at top center. Litho. The St. Louis Browns have often been viewed with a kindly nostalgia that many of today's Major League teams can only envy. Following the 1901 season, the Milwaukee Brewers, charter members of the American League moved to St. Louis and changed their name to the Browns. After a number of successful years at the gate, in 1916 owner Robert Hedges sold the team to Philip Ball, who signs this certificate as president of the team and to whom this certificate is issued. Ball had previously been involved in the Federal League and its problems and as a result of a settlement with Major League baseball, his purchase of the Browns was approved. One of Ball's original investors in the team was Harry Sinclair of Sinclair Oil fame. The Browns went on to win only one pennant, finishing last 14 times and seventh 11 times. In 1953, the team was moved to Baltimore. A scarce, early major league baseball stock AND THE PERSONAL SHARES OF THE TEAM OWNER. Uncancelled and Extremely Fine with just the slightest stub discoloration at extreme left margin. $500 - up
